

ROSENDALE'S CHURCH WAR.

WHY A POPULAR BAPTIST PREACHER FELT FORCED TO RESIGN.

Accused of Intemperance—The Writing of an Apostrophe to the Mosquito the Only Thing One Gentleman Knew to his Discredit.

ROSENDALE, Sept. 4.—No preacher in Ulster County has ranked above the Rev. William F. Zell of Rosendale. He came to this section some months ago and accepted the pastorate of the Rosendale Baptist Church. The church, which had hitherto been well upon the verge of death, took on new life and became the most popular for miles around. Mr. Zell worked indefatigably, drew the largest audiences ever known in Rosendale, and the church was proud of its pastor. Such success, however, was too much for the Rosendale Baptists. Two factions sprang up within the church and an issue was made in regard to the pastor. One party stood by Mr. Zell and supported him to the full; the other claimed that his services were not for the real good of the church; that he was a sensational preacher and his work would be of no lasting benefit; that a man who was so popular with the world could not in truth be duly awake to the duties of the ministry. The pastor's friends admitted that he was not sour-minded or Particular, but averred that he was a thorough Christian, and that he was doing a good work. Here the matter rested for long time, and it was hoped that the difficulty would be settled.

Mr. Zell had taken a prominent part in temperance work. He had not only allied himself with the Anti-Saloon League and advocated total abstinence from his own pulpit, but had gone throughout the country making temperance lectures. There was scarcely a village in the section that he did not visit, and he made good crowds in the city of Kingston. There was no mistaking the position he claimed to occupy, and temperance folks congratulated him upon the acquisition of such a champion.

The surprise of his friends, then, can well be imagined when it was announced that there were those in his own congregation to whom that Mr. Zell preached that which he did not practice—that he was intemperate and a hypocrite. It was decided, and those who preferred the war, sustained them to the very end. But the preacher's friends were not convinced, and Mr. Zell himself (after consulting with the right people) half denied the charges, and said that he had been grossly and slanderously misrepresented. And as for him, emphatically declared that he was a true Christian, and that we have a law to protect a man's name.

The anti-paster party went so far as to aver that he had not only admitted the truth of his own pulpit, but reported them as having said so. From the way in which I have conducted myself for a few years past, I wish one of the congregation would present me with a certificate to the effect that he did not denounce the use of any such language.
